

Dedicated striker plates are designed to suit individual profile systems

All MACO striker plates are developed in conjunction with the systems extrusion companies, this guarantees that they are an exact fit.

By developing our striker plates this way we are able to maximize the strength and security of the windows as we can position the screw fixings so that they pick up screw ports and reinforcing.

To adjust the shootbolt throw 10 to 13 mm, move the mushroom cam so that the plastic pin locates into the desired position. This should be done before either cropping the extension to size, or locating the extension into the rapid-fix drive gear.
